7pm

Tonight we will meet a variety of local wildlife, learn about their unique adaptations & explore their role in our local ecosystem. Get the inside scoop on why these animals end up needing care from Volunteers for Wildlife's premiere wildlife hospital facilities.

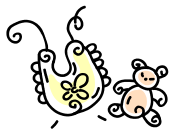

About Volunteers for Wildlife: Volunteers for Wildlife was founded in 1982 and over thirty years later, the organization is continuing its mission to ensure wildlife will always have a place on Long Island. The hospital admits between 750 and 1,000 wild patients per year, from all over Long Island. In addition to their work in rehabilitation, Volunteers for Wildlife provides sanctuary to thirty permanently disabled birds, mammals and reptiles. These animals are a crucial part of their education programming which strives to increase public awareness about wildlife on Long Island through outreach programs with schools, camps, scout troops and senior living centers.

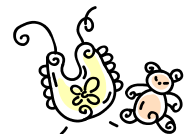

We Are Throwing a Wild Baby Shower for Volunteers for Wildlife!!!

Spring and summer are the most active times of year. Animals are busy, building nests and dens, foraging for food to nourish their new families and placing themselves in constant peril. Baby animals are orphaned. Rescues take place on a daily basis! Supplies are at their lowest during this critical period. HOBAS is asking that you bring an item from the following wish list to help Volunteers as they continue their backbreaking work during this busiest of seasons. Please note that VW relies primarily on donations and fundraising events.

Baby Registry:

Whole nuts of Any Kind, Hard-boiled eggs, Plain Low-Fat Yogurt, Fruit or Vegetable Baby Food, Frozen Corn, Cracked Corn, Sunflower Hearts, Timothy Hay, Millet, Dish Soap (for hand washing dishes), Hand Soap, Sponges (with scouring pads on the back), Laundry Detergent (either powdered or liquid, must be unscented.), Dry Dog Food (NO by-products, please check ingredients!), Large Black Contractor Trash Bags, Tall Kitchen Trash Bags, gift cards to local supermarkets, Home Depot and Staples.
