Golden Eagles in the Catskills

Wednesday, October 10 at 7 PM

Cold Spring Harbor Library - 95 Shore Rd. Cold Spring Harbor

Not much was known about Golden Eagles in the eastern US until researches began to capture and track their local and migratory movements. Through slides of the capture project and telemetry maps, in this program Peg DiBenedetto will relate the findings of research efforts, the surprise of unexpected results, and what is now understood to be the natural history of the relatively small population of Eastern Golden Eagles which migrates through New Jersey into New York, and up into Canada each year.

A raptor enthusiast, Peg DiBenedetto works with both bald and golden eagles. As co-chair of the Research Committee of the Delaware-Otsego Audubon Society, Peg has assisted with the Eastern Golden Eagle Project and is a member of the Eastern Golden Eagle Working Group. She is also on the Board of Directors of the Catskill Center for Conservation and Development, and helps to organize the annual Taking Flight: Birding in the Catskills weekend. Peg and her husband Michael also volunteer with a wildlife rehabilitator and research toxicity issues related to lead hunting ammunition.
